

Lines after Seeing the Trailer for "Star Wars: The Force Awakens" there will be sequel then a sequel to the sequel then a re-boot

there will be a new director new creative teams

new actors will bring new life to the franchise they will pay tribute to favorite moments there is a Buddhism to this process even a karma in the expectation of positive domestic & foreign returns the joy is real it lives in the joy we take in creative merchandising, clever marketing in good casting choices for planned TV spinoffs we all live in the franchise we are the franchise

we are all its characters, all its sequels rebooting through time this is the new faith, the new religion sometimes with alternate endings on the DVD release